Mini Workshop Series

- With everything going on with COVID-19, we will turn our focus to mini-workshops that will be hosted virtually via Zoom
- Ideas for workshops:
 - o Panel discussion- Working from home during COVID-19
 - o Discussion- Sign Posting/ Including extraneous information in your interpretation
 - Fran will reach out to a colleague who has a PhD on the topic of extraneous information in educational settings and will see if she has a presentation that would be applicable
 - o Holly Thomas-Mowery- Translating Scripts
 - o DI Panel- DI preferences for working with hearing interpreters
- Could provide panel members/presenters with a stipend ($200) from the CDHH MOU funds
- We will reach out to potential panelists/presenters and book out 4-5 workshops for the next fiscal year
- These will be offered to Idaho RID members at no cost- This will encourage non-members to join
- Depending on presenters' availability, we will plan to host these workshops on Thursday nights

Extending Membership Fees

- A Wild Apricot reminder email will be sent to members soon to renew memberships
 - o If we can edit this reminder, we will send info about the upcoming year
 - o If members have been financially impacted by COVID, they can reach out to us to ask for an extension

October Workshop

- With everything going on, we may not be able to host an in-person workshop
 - o Although Amanda is willing to conduct her workshop online, we feel this topic would be better in person
 - We will tentatively plan to have Amanda come in the Spring of 2021

- Other ideas for this Fall
 - o Power and Privilege- like workshop- how our decisions while interpreting impact our clients
 - o Deaf slang- Fran has a connection with a presenter and will reach out to her

Region V Zoom Account

- Region V purchased a Zoom license we can use for our meetings and online workshops
 - o Heather shared the login information with the Board

Region V Conference

- Each Affiliate Chapter will pay into the Region V account to share the losses incurred from the canceled Region V conference in July
 - o Idaho RID's contribution will be $96 (rounded to $100)
